

First things to know

How do I download applications ?

By default, your device has many preinstalled applications covering most basic needs.

But you can, of course, download new ones to personalize your device and get a quick access to your Facebook account, play the latest games, check your bank accounts...

First, you will need an active internet connection, either via WiFi, 3G or Ethernet. It is strongly recommended to use the WiFi connection to download applications because they can be quite large and consume a large part of your phone credit if you download over your 3G data connection.

Similarly, a Google™ account is required. You can read the following FAQ to create an account or connect to an existing account.

Finally, to install the applications of your choice, please follow the following procedure.
