

Connecting to a computer

How do I transfer content to my device from my computer running Linux?

There can be several connection modes for a device running Android™ :

- Mass Storage (MSC) : your device is detected as an external hard drive et requires a manual confirmation.
- Android Debug Bridge (ADB) : specific mode for application developers.

It is recommended to use the ADB mode for a computer running Linux. To activate this mode on your device, go in  (or ) Settings >  Options for developers and tick the box USB Debugging.
